

SHORT STORIES

Grade Three

PREFACE

This gives us an immense pleasure to share with you that we have finally been able to bring to you our literary foundation in the form of this small book. Every single material in this book is the product of the collaboration among the students of our class.

As this book contains the creative imagination of tender minds, we hope that reading this book will inspire every individual to search what unique ability they have within them and also triggers them to find the way to show it to the world in concrete form.

We feel that being the students of Ace School is a privilege to us as we are always inspired to do the things that need creative, disciplinary, synthesizing, respectful, ethical minds. This book is the product of the collaboration of all kinds of mind, and also the part of the activities of Ace Junior Literary Club.

We are heavily indebted to Ms. Anjila Bista Giri, the principal of Ace School, for her continuous inspiration and support to make this publication possible.

We'd like to extend our sincere gratitude to the members of editorial board Mr. Puspallal Adhikari, Ms. Cecilia Ghale, Mr. Pravesh Khatiwoda, Mr. Keshav Prasad Neupane and Mr. Sudarshan Pandey.

We are equally grateful to Mr. Ajay Khatri for taking the entire responsibility of graphic designing of the book.

Constructive suggestions from our valued readers are always welcome.

Grade III students

MESSAGE FROM THE PRINCIPAL

This is a matter of pride to relate you the fact that we leave no stone unturned for bringing out the creativity of each individual student. This book is a proof that we are nurturing and developing future litterateurs, too.

Ace is more than a school, fostering five minds for future, where children are encouraged to excel in the area of their interest. Periodical sporting events, educational tours, co-curricular activities etc. have made the students realize what they are good at, what they are interested in and they are encouraged to do better in that along with the academics.

Varieties of concepts from the students and the teachers were brought to the table, discussed and put into action to make this publication possible. We, together with our tender creative minds, feel proud to present you with this result now.

I'd like to thank all the students, teachers, members of the editorial board and class teachers for their hard work to make this book publication a success.

We always anticipate your kind support and constructive suggestions.

Anjila Bista Giri

Content

Title	Page
1. The ant saved the bird.	1
2. Ram and Sam	1
3. THE NAUGHTY GIRL	2
4. The hostel	2
5. The King and his Wise Queen	3
6. LOST	3
7. Sharing is Caring	4
8. THE DESERT	4
9. THE KING AND THE TIGER	5
10. THE LION AND THE BIRDS	5
11. The young boy and The dragon	6
12. The Clever Boy	6
13. Dragon	7
14. Learning a Lesson	7
15. The man and the lion	8
16. KRITI AND HER BEST FRIEND	8

The ant saved the bird.

Aarav shrestha

Once upon a time there was an ant. He was going to drink some water from a lake. While he was drinking, he fell into the pond. A bird saw him struggling. The bird took a leaf from the nearby tree and dropped into the pond near the ant. The ant climbed upon the leaf and the bird took the leaf out of the water. The ant was grateful and thanked the bird for saving his life. 'How can I help you?' The ant asked. The bird said, 'You are too small to help me' and the bird flew away.

After a few days the ant saw the bird being followed by a hunter. The hunter aimed to shoot the bird. Then the ant saw him and stung him on his calf. The hunter, in panic, threw the gun down. The bird flew away on hearing the 'Boom' of the gun.

Ram and Sam

Abhinav Raj Karki

Once upon a time there were two men, Sam and Ram. Ram was very nice but Sam was bad.

They went to the city to find some work. They worked so hard and earned a lot of money. A year later Sam wanted to steal Ram's money as he was very jealous. While Ram was sleeping, he took out the money from under the mattress and killed Ram.

Later Sam was arrested by the police and sent to prison.

The result of the bad work is 'punishment'.

THE NAUGHTY GIRL

Once upon a time, there was a young girl who lived in a village with her mother and father. She studied in grade 3. Her mother was a housewife. Her father was a teacher in a school. She was a bad girl, who made everything dirty in the house. One day her mother got very angry with her behavior. When she came back from the school, her mother scolded her. The girl was very sad. She went to her study room and she was very angry with her mother. It was dinner time. She did not want to eat. It was 9:00 clock at night. While she was doing her homework, suddenly her mother entered the room. She was so frightened that her mother would scold her again. Her mother told her to be a good girl and eat her dinner. From that day onwards, she never let anybody complain about her.

The hostel

Devanshi Thapa

Once upon a time there was a hostel. There were 200 students. It was in the middle of the jungle.

One night a girl from the hostel went to washroom. While she was washing her hands, the water turned red. It was blood. She ran from the washroom and went to her room. In the morning, she related her story to the head master. The headmaster told the girls to walk in a group when they went to washroom. At night, the students were very scared. All night it rained very heavily. But when they got up in the morning, snow was lying everywhere. The headmaster and the students were very scared. In the afternoon the bags and books had vanished. Later, they found out that two boys from the hostel, had played a prank on them.

The King and his Wise Queen

Myeisha Tiwari

Once upon a time, there was a king who was very fond of flowers. He used to go to his garden and water his plants by himself.

One day he set out to visit different countries. He saw many flowers growing and said, "They are beautiful and I want these flowers." He bought many seeds and returned home.

The next day, he told his servants to sow the seeds and take care of them too. So, they planted and watered the seeds every day. Many days passed by and nothing happened. The king was very sad, and he didn't eat anything. The queen was tensed because the king was not eating anything. In the mean time, she got an idea. She took a fish and said, "See, the fish cannot live in land because water is her home. So you have brought the seeds from another country but you didn't think that the plant would not grow here. They also need special environment that suits them to grow".

Then the king understood what the queen meant. He thanked the queen for the lesson and ate his food. They lived happily ever after.

LOST

Once upon a time there was a boy & a little girl. They lived in a village. She was lost in Nepal. Her Mother was crying. One day her mother came to Nepal to look for her. She found her daughter and lived happily ever after.

Sharing is Caring

Once upon a time there were twin sisters. They were Sopi and Rasmi.

One day, they started to fight because they did not have spacious place to sleep. When the mother heard them, she came to see what had happened. The girls saw the mother and kept quiet.

The mother asked them what they were fighting for. The girls blamed each other for creating the situation. Then the mother told them that they should manage to adjust in what they had.

The sisters then decided to share the room and shift their things. They never fought for anything from that day onwards. The mother was so happy to see them sharing the room together.

THE DESERT

Pratik Giri

Once upon a time there was a man who was very poor. His name was Ram. He always carried water in his leather bag to help the villagers.

He wanted to help the villagers but when he reached the village he had only half the bag of water left. A year later his bag was torn but he still didn't give up.

He wanted to keep up helping the villagers by any means. He didn't know how he could fetch water for the villagers.

Once he met a kind man. He told the man about his intention to help the villagers. The kind man was rich. He told Ram to plan for the drinking water supply project for the villagers. Then the kind man and Ram worked for the project and it was successful. The desert like village turned into lovely green.

Ram was thanked and blessed by everyone in the village.

THE KING AND THE TIGER

Preetish Shahi

Once upon a time there was a king who was walking in the forest with his soldiers. There was a well in the middle of the forest. While walking, the soldiers heard a loud screech from the king and went to see what had happened. They saw a tiger who had fallen into the well and was yelling for help. 'Help me! Help me!' He screamed. The king was at the edge of the well, scared. The king made the tiger promise not to kill and hurt the king and his men after being rescued. They rescued the tiger from the well. The tiger thanked them for saving his life. Thereafter, they became best of friends.

THE LION AND THE BIRDS

Raunak Manandhar

Once upon a time there was a lion. The lion was sleeping in the jungle. A hunter was walking in the jungle and he saw a bird sitting on the tree. The hunter shot at the bird but missed it. The lion heard the sound of the gun and woke up. Soon after, the lion was caught in the net.

When the birds saw the lion in the net, they remembered that he had chased the hunter away. Then the birds thought to help the lion. The birds, with great difficulty, untied the net. The lion was free. The lion was thankful to the birds.

None is superior or inferior to others.

The young boy and The dragon

Once upon a time, there lived a young boy. He saw a dragon in the sky. The young boy thought of making the dragon his friend. He went to meet the dragon in the jungle. He called out, "Mr. Dragon, where are you?" The dragon was quite astonished. He asked the boy, "What do you want?" The boy answered, "I want to be your friend." The dragon was very happy. You can befriend anyone. It's up to you.

By: Rezul Niroula

The Clever Boy

Rishav Khadka

Once upon a time there was a boy whose name was Sam. He was very good in studies. One day he was alone at home. He was watching television. Suddenly five thieves broke into his house. Sam was a clever boy. He talked to them nicely. While the thieves were busy collecting the valuables, he quietly called the police and the thieves were arrested. Work with the presence of your mind.

Dragon

Syed Samad Shah

Once upon a time, there was a dragon that could fly very high in the sky. The dragon would trouble the villagers a lot.

One day, a hunter saw the dragon and wanted to kill it so that the villagers would be free of its fear. So, the next day he came to the place where the dragon was sleeping, he tied the legs and mouth of the dragon and dragged him to the village nearby. The villagers saw it and burned it to death.

The villagers lived happily without fear from that day onwards.

Learning a Lesson

Samyukta Jyoti Lama Moktan

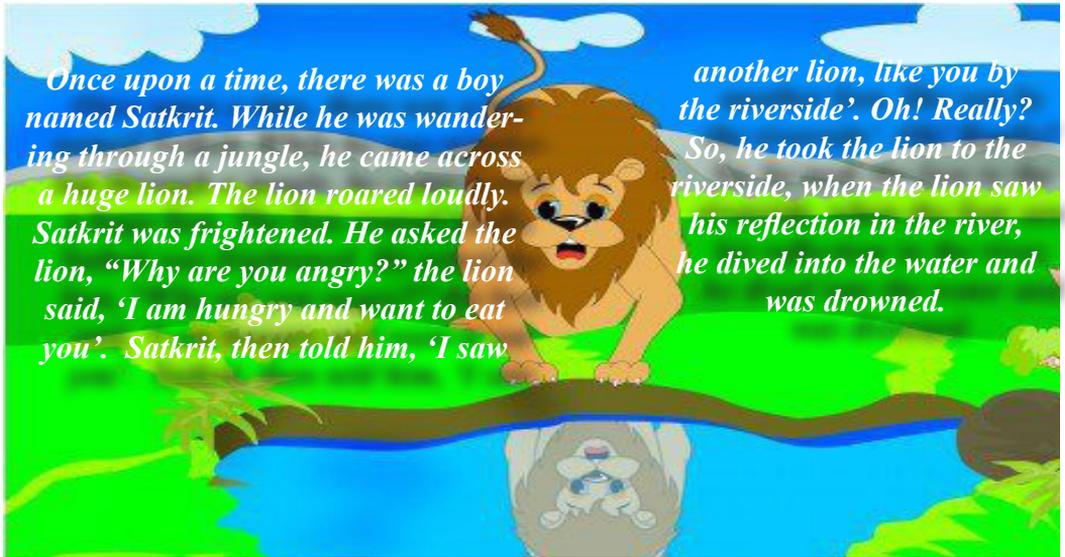

Once upon a time there was a little boy. He loved to run. One day he was going to school.

He was running so fast. He tripped over a stone and got hurt badly. After school, he went home and told his mother what had happened. She told him to be careful. He felt very happy as his mother always took very good care of him.

He also learned a lesson that everything should be done carefully, otherwise, we have to suffer. From that day onwards he did everything very carefully. He studied really carefully and became a good man. His mother was very happy.

The man and the lion Satkrit Kadel

Once upon a time, there was a boy named Satkrit. While he was wandering through a jungle, he came across a huge lion. The lion roared loudly. Satkrit was frightened. He asked the lion, "Why are you angry?" the lion said, 'I am hungry and want to eat you'. Satkrit, then told him, 'I saw another lion, like you by the riverside'. Oh! Really? So, he took the lion to the riverside, when the lion saw his reflection in the river, he dived into the water and was drowned.

Shaivi Chhetri

KRITI AND HER BEST FRIEND

Once upon a time there lived a girl named Kriti. She was good and friendly. Her mother worked in an office and her father was an engineer. Once her father was very ill. She went to see him in the hospital. She felt very bad to see his condition. She cried. Her mother told her not to cry, everything would be fine. The doctor treated him. He got better soon. The family was happy.

Grade Three
Class teacher:
2017/2018

“Our goal isn’t to live forever, it is to create something that will.”

Editorial Board

Chief Editors

Mr. Keshav Prasad Neupane(English)

Mr. Puspa Lal Adhikari(Nepali)

Editors

Ms.Cecila Ghale

Mr. Sudarshan Pandey

Mr. Prabesh Khatiwada

Graphic Designer

Mr. Ajay Khatri